A note for the team!

- Recently a few users have complained about us not removing the author from our credits in the game. We did NOT remove them, but rather changed the person's name. They selected their real name themselves. The problem of the game company being listed has no relation to us. In this game, EHOME and Orange and the Orange team are also listed in the credits because they gave us tips, but not the person who designed the game (Metal is). We're sorry if these problems have caused any issue for you.
- In some places a suggestion has been made that someone should have been credited for creating Legend of Zelda Theme... Well, we haven't had any exposure to the game before, so we have no knowledge of any tips we may have picked up after a few quests, and somehow we're listed in the credits for Legend of Zelda's main theme. For the record, even if we heard the theme before, the construction of the main dungeons is according to original design. In other words, we're not cheating in the game,
